WITH THE THEATRICAL FOLK

"Prince Humbug"

The fact that Frank Lator is coming to Portsmouth today for a self to awaken the liveliest interest upon the part of theatregoers because he is a prime favorite here.

But when it is known that he brings at this time his new musical comedy production which has made an extraordinary hit in Boston and which, from all accounts, is one of the greatest pieces of stage work that has been brought forward in this country in a long time, interest naturally is greatly intensified.

The new piece, which is called "Prince Humbug," was written expressly for Mr. Lator and is said to give him unlimited scope to indulge in those methods of fun making which distinguish this comedian among his contemporaries.

Lator combines the faculty of creating laughter with the valuable asset of being a genuine actor, and it may be said of him, more than of any other man in his line of work, that he sways his audience, or will whether it is in the expression of pathos or of straight comedy. His performance of Nott, the tailor, in "Coming Through the Rye" will be perfectly remembered by the thousands of people who witnessed it. It was one of the most delightful bits of comedy work that has been presented here at any period of time, and the statement which has been made by every daily newspaper in Boston that Mr. Lator's performance in the new piece is immeasurably better than in the former production referred to, must be taken as convincing that a rare treat is in store for all who attend Music Hall next Wednesday night.

Mr. Lator is surrounded by an organization numbering 80 people or more, of whom not less than twelve are comedians and vocalists of known ability, while the chorus and ballet, which is made up principally of heart and girls is described as about the most competent aggregation of suppleness and agility that has been brought together in one organization. The comedy element in the new work is said to be exceedingly funny and the music is described as decidedly melodious and pleasing.

The scenery, costumes, electrical and mechanical effects are said to be unusually massive and beautiful.

The sale of seats begins Monday morning and there is quite likely to be an unusually heavy demand.

Baby to be Given Away at Music Hall

Unique attraction for theatregoers at this city next Saturday evening. Parents do not object to giving baby away.

A real live baby is to be given away from the state of Music Hall on Saturday night, is the announcement from the company's management.

Manager Hartford, who asked as to whether this would actually occur, said that it would. He stated that the parents of the baby had no objections to the plan, and he did not see that anything else should, and nothing preventing, somebody will be presented with a live baby at Music Hall on Saturday night.

There are lots of ladies in Portsmouth who have no baby of their own and will doubtless attend for this purpose, is the opinion of the management. In fact, they believe they could give away several babies if they had them. This is not a new idea, as it has been tried in a number of the cities visited by Manager Fenberg. Some places, however, the authorities have intervened. In Portland, Me., a few weeks ago, the prosecuting attorney backed up the mayor in opposing the giving away gratuitously of a live baby. There is no drawing or lottery about it. Whoever is bound to be given a baby, that's all. The law on that point is in no way violated.

This procedure is novel in this city and will no doubt draw a record crowd at Music Hall on Saturday night.

Manager Hartford says that this baby is exceedingly nice and pretty. He declares no one would have the heart to refuse it when they see it, and that it is not a doll, but is alive.

SCHOOL ROOM CLOSED OWING TO DIPHTHERIA

Two Cases Reported from Opposite Sections of the City

Two more cases of diphtheria have been reported to the Board of Health. The first case was that of a child from Hunking street, a pupil in the Haven school, and the other case was from Prospect street.

The room at the Haven school was disinfected this forenoon.

In the first named case the house was at once placed under quarantine and Wednesday afternoon City Physician Johnston ordered the school room from which the child came closed for ten days, and at the same time the room was fumigated. The same procedure will be followed in the second case.

BULLETS HIT HOUSE

Some Doubt as to Where They Came From and Investigation Ordered

Delid Spinnery of the Spinnery road, states that while driving into his barn Wednesday afternoon, he was forced to seek cover hurriedly to escape a fusillade of bullets which began striking all round him. Some struck the barn and others imbedded themselves in nearby trees.

Mr. Spinnery's supposes that the bullets may have come from the rifle range on which soldiers from Fort Constitution were understood to be practicing.

Capt. McBride, commanding Fort Constitution, states that he does not believe the bullets came from the rifle range, but on hearing of it this afternoon he ordered being stopped until he could investigate.

To carry that distance the rifles would have to be elevated at an angle of forty-two degrees, while all the shooting at the range yesterday was about blank at 300 yards with the targets at the bottom of a high hill.

POLICE COURT

Two Cases Continued and a Third Man Sent Out on Probation

Police court was dull today. Martha Johnson, a sailor, who had taken too much fire water, was released on the strength of his promise to leave town, sentence being deferred, and he was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

A man named Jewell, variously said to be E. R. Jewell and William E. Jewell, was brought in from Kittery this morning on a charge of obtaining services by false pretence. His case was continued to Friday.

Owen Laskey's case was also continued to Friday.

KEON---DONOVAN

New York Civil Engineer Weds a
Newfield's Young Woman

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was the scene of a beautiful wedding today, when Miss Margaret A. Donovan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Donovan of Newfields, became the bride of Joseph John Keon of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rev. Fr. E. J. Walsh performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of friends, relatives and acquaintances of the contracting parties.

Previous to the arrival of the wedding party, Organist William P. Lavin gave an organ recital and while the party were entering the church he played Gounod's "Triumphal Entry" Wedding March.

At the arrival of the bridal party at the altar, Mr. P. E. Kane gave a tender solo, "Ave Maria," from "Milkmaid."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, John P. Whithead of South Berwick and Mr. Kane sang a tender duet, "O Sacrament" from "Milkmaid."

On the departure of the bridal party, the organist rendered Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The bride was a stately vision of grace, garbed in a rich creation of mullberry messaline satin trimmed with bands of Persian to match, with robe and sleeves of white fillet lace and Persian.

Her hat was of mullberry velvet trimmed with white duchesse lace and white ostrich feathers.

She carried a white ivory prayer book.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Frank A. Fagan, who was being escorted in gray messaline silk trimmed with tulle, a robe of fish point lace.

Her hat was of black corded silk, trimmed with black ostrich feathers.

Frank A. Fagan, cousin of the groom was best man.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party and friends repaired to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank A. Fagan, on Miller avenue, where a reception of delightful interest was held and where there was an outpouring of congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple.

Then followed a banquet, served by Walter Frank G. Leary, consisting of salad, cold, frozen pudding, sherbet, assorted cake, fruit, fruit punch and coffee.

The home was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns and out flowers, the handwork of Florist R. A. Lannaford.

Albert Fagan, nephew of the bride, and Michael Barrett acted as ushers at the church and the subsequent reception.

The wedding gifts were costly and numerous, embracing the finest of silver, cut glass, embroidery and china, and an elegant evidence of the esteem in which the couple are held.

Mr. and Mrs. Keon left on the afternoon express for an extensive wedding tour to Montreal, Toronto and other interesting points in Canada.

The bride's traveling attire was blue broadcloth, trimmed with satin bands and pan velvet; the hat was of blue corded silk, trimmed with Persian band, ostrich feather and bird of paradise.

On their return they will reside at number 1120 Fifty-seventh street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Both bride and groom are popular people and make this start on life's journey with most favorable surroundings and with the hearty wishes of hosts of friends for future happiness.

The bride, who has resided most of her life in Newfields, is a well known nurse and a woman of charming personality, who has endeared herself to a host of friends by her kind and loving disposition.

The groom, who is a graduate of Columbia college, is a most genial person to meet. He ably fills the position as civil engineer for the city of New York and is a man of brilliant business prospects.

Guests were present from New York, Boston, Cambridge, Dover, Exeter, Newfields, Newmarket and Epifany.

TREASURER HASKELL DRIVER
FROM DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEENot Even Bryan Could Save Him from That Opprobrious Fate

New York, Sept. 24.—It is stated here on the best of authority that as a result of the disclosures regarding Gov. Haskell's connection with Standard Oil the Democratic national committee has asked for his resignation as Bryan's campaign treasurer.

Haskell's sudden departure from his Chicago headquarters for his Guthrie home is taken as conclusive evidence that he has been ousted from the job of campaign collector.

Haskell's resignation is reported to have been written several days ago, or coincident with his leaving for Oklahoma, and the formal announcement is expected to be made within a day or two.

The ousting of the man who has been shown to have long been a Standard Oil agent, has been demanded by leading Democratic leaders all over the country, including Mr. Bryan's closest advisers, and this move was regarded as imperative by them following President Roosevelt's condemnation of the Oklahoma executive.

It is further declared that the Democratic candidate was warned at Denver that if he appointed Haskell as financier of the campaign there would be the greatest difficulty in defending him should his well known trust connections become noised throughout the country.

Despite those warnings, he permitted the selection of Haskell and rushed to the defense of Haskell when the campaign treasurer was assailed by President Roosevelt.

HENRY COLE'S BODY FOUND

Floated on the Tide At South Eliot
and Was Found This Morning

The body of Henry Cole of Eliot was found this morning in the Piscataqua river opposite South Eliot.

George Staples of South Eliot was out in his boat opposite T. M. Staples' store, shortly after eight o'clock, when he discovered the body floating near him. It had evidently been swept to the surface in the surge of the tide. He attached a line to the body and towed it ashore at Paul's landing.

Cornet E. E. Shapleigh of Kittery was summoned.

Mr. Cole had been missing since the night of Sunday, Sept. 13, when he is believed to have stepped off a wharf and drowned in the dark. His family consisted of his wife, and children.

The body was seen at the surface once before but sank before it could be secured. A dynamite crew has been employed, and grapples have been used, but all were unsuccessful and it was believed that the body had been swept to sea.

The funeral will be held late this afternoon at the home.

THE MERRYCONAG DAMAGED

Accident to Steamboat That Was on the Isles of Shoals Route

A heavy pall of smoke made more dense by a thick fog is ascribed as the cause of a serious accident to the steamer Merryconag of the Casco Bay and Harpswell line which seriously embarrassed Portland shipping for two or three hours on Wednesday. The Merryconag poked her nose into one of the wharves at the Grand Trunk and stayed in her second deck, and smashed her stem badly.

Owing to the thick weather and the number of steamers plying about the harbor, Capt. Gates ran under one bell when he left Diamond Islands Roads, and he proceeded cautiously up the harbor. Men were on the lookout forward, but the harbor was comparatively clear of vessels, and nothing was seen until the lookout on the second deck of the steamer shouted a warning to the captain and jumped away from his dangerous seat. Not 10 feet away from the steamer a wharf of the Grand Trunk siding loomed up, and despite a quick revving of the engines the steamer crashed into the heavy piling and tumbled.

Nearly every passenger who was standing was taken off his feet, and those who were sitting in various parts of the boat were jarred severely but no one was hurt and the Merryconag was taken to her dock. She is now at the wharf of the Portland Shipbuilding company, where she will be repaired.
